TO HAVE NIGHT SCHOOL

Action Taken by Parents-Teachers' Association to That Effect—To Sell Old Papers.

Work of a real, practical nature has been taken up by the Parent Teachers' Association of the city, as may be seen by the report submitted by the secretary, Mrs. E. E. Carver, which appears below. The efforts being made by the association looking toward the betterment of the schools and providing for the needs of those employed who are desirous of securing a better education, are most praiseworthy and should be encouraged. It is work of a character that should enlist the sympathy and command the support of all right thinking citizens. The report follows:

The regular monthly meeting of the Parent Teachers' Association of Alexandria public schools was held Monday evening in Lee School building. The attendance was indeed inspiring and we were glad to welcome many new members, especially two fathers, and hope in the future more will become interested as we are sure the fathers are as much interested in the welfare of their children as the mothers, and the association is open to both parents.

The report of our delegate Miss Nellie Payne to Berryville, Va., was very interesting.

To Establish Night School

Several subjects of importance were discussed and plans adopted. First, a night school will be inaugurated in the near future and we trust we will have the full co-operation of the community as we feel it a very necessary asset, after a canvass of the factories. We have an enrollment of about sixty-five pupils who would like to avail themselves of such an opportunity. The purchase of three paper balers was authorized, and as soon as they are received one will be installed in each of the following schools: High school, Lee school and Washington school. In conjunction with the balers the saving of all old newspapers and magazines is to be impressed upon the pupils and on days designated by the superintendent they will be brought to the schools and disposed of, the association using said funds for betterment of schools.

As our custom has been for two years, a Thanksgiving offering will be taken through the schools on the day before Thanksgiving which enables the association to make a gift from mother to mother of our schools. Last year the offering was most generous and we were enabled to deliver one hundred and twenty-five baskets which gladdened many a home.

Owing to unforseen duties upon our President the meeting night will be changed from the last Monday in the month to the last Tuesday.

NEGRO WOMEN IN FIGHT

Combatants Appear on King Street and Cause Excitement

Some excitement was caused in the northwestern section of the city yesterday afternoon by a fight between four colored women. The row started on Queen street, but the belligerents made their way to King street during the melee. Sergeant Wilkinson picked up the quartette at Queen and Columbus streets, and this morning the trouble was aired in the Police Court.

According to the testimony, a colored woman named Martha Majors, made herself conspicuous by declaring that she was celebrating the passage of Alexandria from the "wet" to the "dry" column. Encountering Eliza Fields, Louisa Byrd and Irene Bentley, a war of words followed, which caused a "mix-up". According to the depositions of the participants, unconventional language was used, and during the trouble several hundred persons gathered to witness the combat. It was alleged bricks and knives were flourished, but neither of the women exhibited any marks of injury.

Justice Caton dismissed the charges against Martha Majors and Eliza Fields but imposed a fine of $10 each upon Louisa Byrd and Irene Bentley.

HOW YALE GOT PORTRAIT

Which Helped to Buy Graduation Gown For One of Alexandria's Fair Daughters.

The recent purchase by Andrew Carnegie of Shadowbrook, former home of Anson Phelps Stokes, recalls an interesting visit which this distinguished man paid to Alexandria several years since.

A certain young lady, living almost within the shadow of old Christ Church, was about to graduate at a school also near, and while the young lady herself was deeply immersed in preparing an essay, rehearsing a Dickens play, and numerous other things, her mother was as deeply engrossed in attending to the material and common-place details, not least of which was a suitable outfit for the momentous occasion, and the family purse was not at all commencurate with the family wishes.

It finally occurred to her to trv and dispose of an old painting, of Yale, and a communication with that institution was at once established. The matter was taken up by Anson Phelps Stokes, secretary of Yale, who offered a sum less than a hundred dollars. Before purchasing it, however, Dr. Stokes accepted an invitation to visit Alexandria, and see the picture before the deal was closed.

On his way down to Hampden-Sidney College, where he was to lecture, he stopped over one afternoon in April.

Upon viewing the old painting, which portrays the early buildings of Yale, with the wooden fence long since removed, upon which no freshman was allowed to sit without chastisement, and the old court house with its green, Dr. Stokes remarked, "What a singular coincidence! The site of my home is in the picture." He spoke, too, of his summer home near Lennox which Mr. Carnegie has just bought, and which is said to be the second largest private residence in America, and brought $400,000.

The old picture was shipped to Yale to hang in Woodbridge Hall, the office of Dr. Stokes, who did not know how materially he assisted in decorating one of the lovely graduates of that year. Nor did the artist, as he wielded his brush more than three-quarters of a century ago, foresee that his labor and skill would be converted into an outer covering for his great niece.

Shortly after this incident, a fire occurred, destroying some of the earlier buildings of Yale, adding to the intrinsic worth of the old painting, which, after fulfilling its mission, now rests in goodly company, as one of a valued collection owned by Dr. Stokes.

ALL SAINTS TODAY

Feast Observed in Catholic Churches Throughout the World

The feast of All Saints was the occasion today in Catholic churches with masses at about the same time as on Sunday. Services appropriate to the occasion were held in St. Mary's Church.

All Souls' Day, one of the most solemn feasts of the church, will be the beginning of novenas for the soul of the dead. The remainder of November is devoted to masses and prayers for the departed souls and Catholics generally observe the ensuing days in commemoration of their dead relatives and friends.

ONE YEAR IN JAIL

Joseph Russell, who was sent on to the grand jury by the Police Court on the 23d of August, on the charge of committing an unnatural crime, upon a colored boy named Robert Whitney, was brought before the Police Court again this morning, the Corporation Court having decided that it was a case which could be handled by the lower tribunal. Russell was fined $50 and given six months in jail. He will be compelled to serve three months for non-payment of the fine which with the time he has already been a prisoner will amount to an imprisonment of one year.

Rye Sends Message of Congratulations to Stuart on Occasion of Virginia's Entering Dry Column

This morning's Richmond Times-Dispatch says: On the eve of Virginia's entrance into the ranks of prohibition States, Governor Tom C. Rye, of Tennessee, last night sent a telegram of congratulation to Governor Stuart. In his message he said:

"Closing of saloons will abolish the most degrading of social centers and loafing places; will light the fires of hope and love in the hearts of distressed womanhood and give thousands of children a chance to be better bred, better born and better reared."

MERGED INTO CAFES.

Half a Dozen or More Former Bar Rooms Will be Turned Into Lunch Houses and Hotels.

The closing of the saloons will result in five or six former abodes of Bacchus being metamorphosed into eating houses and hotels. The proprietors of certain places have during the past few weeks been preparing for this transition, and been engaged in making certain alterations in their places. Some will be made into oyster houses, where steamed bivalves will be served. Others will handle oysters in the shell or sell them by the pint, quart or gallon during the season.

MAKE ANOTHER TRIP

German Submarine Deutschland Arrives at New London, Conn.

New London, Conn., Nov. 1—The German submarine Deutschland arrived in the harbor here early this morning.

Capt. Koenig said the Deutschland left Bremen on October 10, and made the trip here without special incident. The entire crew comprises 25 men The Deutschland appeared in the outer harbor shortly after midnight and proceeded to the dock of the Eastern Forwarding Company.

Capt. F. Hinsch, of the Forwarding Company, accompanied by Dr. R. E. Black, the health officer, and other officials, met the submersible on a tug. The usual quarantine regulations were waived and the Deutschland tied up at the dock near the North German Lloyd steamer Willehad.

The Deutschland was said to have a large cargo of chemicals.

The arrival of the Deutschland gives point to a report in well-informed circles that in the future all German submarines coming to the United States, whether naval or merchantmen, will make either New London or Newport their port of call. No more submarines will enter Hampton Roads, because of the danger of nets being dropped to trap them off the Virginia capes.

American submarines are usually operating in the waters off New London and Newport at all times of the year. British nets dropped there might endanger American vessels and the lives of American sailors. German officials do not believe that the British would take the chance of netting an American vessel.

GAZETTE One Week 10c

The "Whatsoever Circle" of Kings Daughters, Grace Church, will hold their regular monthly meeting on Thursday, November 2, at 8 p. m. at 118 south Royal street.

Rev. Gypsy Smith, jr., was given a free will offering of $2,061.08 at the close of his meetings in Charlottesvill Sunday. He will open meetings at Rochester, Pa., next Sunday evening.

Samarian Rebecca Lodge, 27, I. O. O. F., will hold their regular monthly meeting tomorrow (Thursday) at 2:30 p. m., in Odd Fellows Hall, north Columbus street. As business of importance will come before this meeting all members are urged to attend.

The advent of the prohibition law is producing some pathetic scenes. Many, mostly females, who have suffered long through no fault of their own, but who have been vicarious victims of the result of strong drink, naturally rejoice at the passing away of the saloon. A woman residing in the First ward, who has great reason to rejoice at present conditions, suddenly abandoned her household duties yesterday, and supposing she was the bearer of fresh news, ran from house to house, knocking upon the doors and announcing that the town had gone dry. She was as earnest as Paul Revere, and in her hurry to circulate the glad tidings she emerged from her home without slipping on street attire.

The main topic during the lunch hour at the high school is the Indian opera Powhatan to be given by the best singers and actors of the school. The enthusiasm is catching and as the spirit of Colonial Virginia spreads over town, it is expected there will be packed houses at all three performances. Tickets can be secured from the pupils and it is advised by the faculty that tickets be bought from the pupils as each one takes a certain amount of pride in selling as many as possible. The proceeds go to the Athletic and Literary societies. Another rehearsal was held at the opera house this afternoon. Reserved seats may be obtained at Allen's drug store.

POLICE COURT

(Justice H. B. Caton, presiding).

The following cases were disposed of this morning.

Eliza Fields, colored, charged with disorderly conduct, was dismissed.

Louisa Byrd and Irene Bentley, both colored, were fined $10 each for disorderly conduct and fighting.

Daniel Nelson, colored, charged with destroying property of Thomas Rowe, was fined $20.

Harry Werner, charged with disorderly conduct, forfeited his collateral by failing to appear.

Jack Flannigan, charged with disorderly conduct forfeited his collateral by failing to appear.

Joseph Russell, charged with assaulting a small colored boy named Robert Whitney, was fined $50 and given six months in jail.

Too much liquor is said to have caused Charles C. Miller, Richmond employe, forty-nine years old, to attempt to shuffle off his mortal coil yesterday by shooting himself. Miller shot himself in the left side with a single barreled gun near the heart in a rear room of his home yesterday morning. Neighbors, hearing the report of the gun, ran in and found him lying on a cot, his clothing on the left side of his body besmeared with blood from the gaping wound. On the floor nearby lay the gun still smoking.

ANNE LEE HOME OF AGED ASCENDS WATER WAGON

Formal Dedication Occurred Last Evening Before A Large Gathering of Interested Friends.

The Board of Governors of the Anne Lee Memorial Home for the Aged should feel today that their months of labor were rewarded yesterday afternoon by the looks of the building they have remodeled and made into a beautiful home for the declining years of the men and women of this section who have no family ties, yet should not have to spend the last years of their lives in an alms house. There are many who have families, but feel that they have outlived their usefulness in the home and would prefer paying the entrance fee and maybe a nominal board and have the care and attention that they deserve, without the feeling that they are in the way, which many old folks do in busy households.

The old Herbert house, built in colonial days by Thomas Herbert and of the time of the Carlyle house, has been made into a most up-to-date Home. The entrance, remodeled by the 17th Virginia Regiment Chapter U. D. C., adds greatly to the beauty of the building.

Yesterday the parlors, halls and dining rooms were decorated with pine trees, autumn leaves, chrysanthemums, and Confederate, Virginia and United States flags. Throughout the evening fruit punch (not spiked) and cakes were served by the members of the board, assisted by Miss Lillian Schwarzmann, Miss Katherine Waller, Miss Christina Kemper, Miss Delia Phillips, Miss Louise Nicol, Miss Lucy Uhler and Miss Julia Duncan.

Several hundred people availed themselves of this opportunity to inspect the building. The home will be open to visitors at all times, but of course, the rooms of those making this their home will not be open to inspection, unless some one is personally calling on them.

Dr. Edward A. Gorman was a most able master of ceremonies and introduced the speakers briefly. The opening prayer by Rev. Father Louis Smet was impressive and listened to with the greatest reverence by all.

Mr. Henry K. Field made a short speech about the wonderful work the board has accomplished.

Judge Charles E. Nicol was the next speaker, and his humorous remarks were greatly enjoyed.

The Rev. Dr. Samuel A. Wallis, of the Episcopal Theological Seminary of Virginia, made a short speech of praise for the noble work.

Mrs. James E. Alexander was called on next and she gave a few most interesting reminiscences of that neighborhood and the present home when she was a child. Mrs. Alexander praised the work of the entire board, but especially the untiring efforts of Mrs. Lycurgus E. Uhler. She remarked that Mrs. Alice Hough Uhler would always be remembered in Alexandria, for while others had been able assistants, Mrs. Uhler had been the main spring of the movement.

Mrs. Uhler replied briefly to Mrs. Alexander in terms of heartfelt appreciation of the praise, but claimed all members of the board should have equal credit.

Mr. Leopold Ruben gave a short talk upon the financial part of the work and the marvelous manner in in which it had been accomplished on such a comparatively small amount of money.

Mrs. Legh Wilber Reid was the next called upon, as the president of the Anne Lee Memorial Association 17 years ago, when this association was formed to raise funds to erect a suitable memorial to Anne, the mother of General Robert E. Lee. At that time a bazaar was held for this object and over seven hundred dollars raised, but no agreement could be reached as to the form of the memorial and the money was placed in bank at interest until the time should come when a memorial should be agreed upon. Last year when Mrs. Uhler began to perfect plans for this home she called upon Mrs. Reid, as president of the defunct association, to give these funds to this object. Mrs. Reid called a meeting, through the press, for the books of that association had been destroyed by a friend of the secretary after her death, and all members of the original 25 or 30 who saw this notice attended, and voted that the money be turned over to the present board of governors for the purpose of helping make a memorial to Anne Lee. So far as can be remembered now those who responded to that call were Miss Annie Henderson, Miss Loula Smoot, Mrs. Walter E. McCaffrey, Mrs. George William Ramsay, Mrs. Maria Pauli Peyton, Mrs. Frank T. King, and Miss Katherine Stuart. The original officers were Mrs. Legh Wilber Reid, president, Miss Sallie Stuart, vice-president, Mrs. William Boothe, Sr., treasurer, Miss Katherine Stuart, corresponding secretary and Miss Alice E. Colquhoun, recording secretary.

Miss Fanny Burke, the president, who for many years had kept the building open as a refuge for the homeless, spoke most depreciatingly of her work, claiming she only collected a small amount from the churches of the town and paid rent on the house, but nevertheless to Miss Burke is due the credit for the idea that has conceived the present model Home. Miss Burke remarked that the present condition has come about in much the same way as the Alexandria Hospital. Many years ago some one gave Miss Julia Johns a five dollar note with which she rented a room and placed in it two cots, and this "hospital" could never be closed for the simple reason that some one was always in it, so from that start came the Alexandria Hospital and from Miss Burke's always keeping this home open has evolved the Anne Lee Memorial Home for the Aged.

The board of governors is Miss Fanny Burke, president, Mrs. Lucurgus E. Uhler, 1st vice president, Mrs. James B. Fitzgerald, 2nd vice president, Mrs. William Campbell, 3rd vice president, Mrs. M. R. O'Sullivan, corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. H. Mansfield, recording secretary, Mr. Arthur Herbert, Jr., treasurer, Mrs. H. P. Wilson, Mrs. W. W Demaine, Miss Katherine Stuart, Mrs George L. Simpson, Mrs. William Ogden, Mrs. Roberta Pierpoint, Mrs. Herman Friedlander, Mr. Leopold Ruben, Mr. William Desmond, Mr. Lorenzo Wolford and Dr. E. A. Gorman.

ANNE LEE WATER WAGON

Alexandria's Transition From "Wet" to "Dry" Accomplished Peaceably Last Night.

There is an old saying, common, even so far back as the days of the Caesars, that what we most dread never occurs. This was manifest last night, when the funeral dirge of the saloon was heard in the city. Incidentally it was Hallowe'en Night, and, as is always the case on this occasion, there was a general turnout of old and young alike. The streets were alive with masqueraders and there was joy in the air. The advocates of prohibition were rejoicing at the passing away of the saloon, while many who had doubted the wisdom of the movement vied with the enemies of King Alcohol in their rejoicings. In the main, good feeling prevailed, and while numbers of persons who were on the streets showed the effects of drink but few manifested any disposition to act disorderly. These conditions were hailed with satisfaction by those who had anticipated the contrary.

While the festivities were at their zenith Jupiter Pluvius got in his work, and a heavy rain sent the revellers and spectators scampering to shelter. Jupiter Tonans, also let it be known that he was on hand, and vivid lightning and thunder was added to the general effect.

The rain began to fall shortly after 9 o'clock and continued at intervals for some time, clearing the streets of pleasure-seekers, but scenes within doors, where private parties were given, were lively. Most of such gatherings were attended by masqueraders, who participated into all varieties of Hallowe'en sports. It was long after midnight before the city resumed its normal condition.

British casualties reported in October in all war areas are: Officers 4,331; men, 102,702.

DRASTIC OUSTER LAW.

Virginia is now in the dry column, and it would be well for all persons in the commonwealth to understand conditions which prevail, especially officers of the law who have had a great responsibility placed upon them.

Alexandria being a border city, it will be comparatively easy to smuggle liquor into the town. This was done during the civil war in defiance of the United States army and navy. Let us hope, however, that the civil authorities of Alexandria will do what the military could not. Now that prohibition is a fact, not only should the law officers use every means to enforce the law, but private citizens should vie with them. It is the custom of some to talk much but to do little, virtually nothing in aiding the authorities in preventing infractions of the law. It is the duty of every law officer of the state and city to take cognizance of any infraction of the prohibition or any other law, under pain of removal and every good citizen should realize that it is his duty to vie with them.

The real power that will govern the enforcement of the prohibition statute is the famous "ouster law." Its prime object is to compel all officers of the state to enforce rigidly, impartially and diligently the prohibition measure. When the law was first presented it applied solely to the officers of the state who were charged with the duty of preventing the sale of liquors. Members of the legislature at once agreed that the law would be a good thing for all officers and it became a general instead of a specific statute.

Under the prohibition law, the commissioner and his corps of officers are to see that the civil officers discharge their duties as applied to liquor suppression. The "ouster" law, is stringent, and when any citizen makes complaint against an officer for dereliction he must answer in court. Judges, prosecuting attorneys, sheriffs, constables, police officers are required, under the general law of the state, to make report to prosecuting officers and to courts of all violations that come under their notice, failure to do so making them liable to removal from office.

LATE PASTOR RUSSELL

The sudden death of Rev. Charles Taze Russell on a railroad train in Texas, yesterday afternoon in mentioned elsewhere in the Gazette. He had been a sufferer from heart troubles for some time.

Pastor Russell, as he was generally known, attained universal notoriety during the past few years. Many Alexandrians heard him preach when he appeared in Washington.

Through the Bible Students' Association of America his sermons have been given world-wide circulation. A few years ago they were printed in the Gazette. He advocated a religion of such breadth that he included Protestants of all denominations among his followers.

The deceased probably had more hearers in halls and through the nespapers, tracts and books than any herald of the gospel in ancient or modern times. His addresses appealed to thousands who lack interest in the orthodox theology of the different denominations. While not original in his deductions, he brought about a rennaissance which set many persons to thinking.

Pastor Russell had made the prophetic portions of the scripture a close study. Like all such students, he believed in a literal fulfillment of the many forecasts of the Old and New Testament, i. e., the restoration of the kingdom of Israel, the immenence of the second advent, the glories of the coming ages, etc.

His theology was generally repudiated by both Protestant and Catholic divines, but he persisted in spreading it in all the world.

Pastor Russell, like the late John Cumming, one of the greatest Biblical scholars of his day, went too far in his enthusiasm. Cumming supposed that the Christian age would pass away in 1866. Russell supposed this transition would occur in 1914.

We read several years ago six of Russell's bound volumes. While not adopting all his convictions, we found his works very entertaining and of a nature calculated to enthuse all who look for a fulfillment of a prayer which has been going up for nineteen hundred years—"Thy kingdom come!"

PEACEABLE TRANSITION.

The passing of the Old Dominion from the "wet" to the "dry" column was accomplished last night decently and in good order. Hallowe'en Night occurring at the time the saloons were about to close, it was feared that certain people might precipitate trouble. This would have been unfortunate at a time so many persons wore masks, as it would have been difficult to identify the offenders.

But, so far as can be learned, no one took advantage of such conditions, and there was throughout the state general good feeling.

There were probably fewer overt acts last night than on previous Hallowe'en nights. Youngsters did not bombard houses with cobblestones as has been done in bygone years, nor was property defaced. Years ago quiet people entertained a dread of this holiday. Blinds were removed, signs changed, vegetables used as missiles, and in some cases serious practical jokes were indulged in.

SIGNIFICANT WORDS.

"We started the war, but are unable to finish it," said Eduard Bernstein, Socialist, during a debate in the German Reichstag, in session, according to dispatches from Berlin. Bernstein attacked the pan-German policy and said the war's toll was four and a half million dead, three and a half million mutilated and eleven million wounded. We ought to declare our readiness to accept an armistice immediately," he concluded.

There is every reason to believe the Bernstein voices the convictions of many others in the Fatherland, who have not the temerity to express themselves. Germany was tired of war more than a year ago. The leaders of the nation realized then that they had bitten off more than they could chew. Their peace feelers, proved disappointing, and now the country must fight for its national existence. The drain upon German resources is fearful to contemplate, while spectres of eventual defeat occasionally fall upon her path.

HOW WILL WOMEN VOTE?

Upon This Question Largely Depends Result in Illinois

Chicago, Nov. 1—Figuring out a Wilson victory in Illinois is a precarious business. It can be done if the enthusiastic assurances of the Democratic leaders are accepted hands down; if the very obvious depression on the part of the Republicans is taken at full face value; if it is granted that the women and the laboring men will throw themselves into the equation, and if it is assumed that the Socialists, the recalcitrant Progressives and the insurgent Germans "stay put."

Many of these elements undoubtedly are lending themselves to the Democratic campaign and by their support have given the President better than a mere fighting chance. They have exploded the fallacious claim that Illinois in this campaign is a certain Republican State. The result is neither foreordained nor foreclosed. It is just as doubtful as that in New York or West Virginia or Minnesota.

The vote of this State will scarcely be less than 1,500,000, and it may top that by 100,000. In 1912, 1,146,000 votes were polled. This year 305,000 women have registered in Chicago alone. There is no registration outside the larger cities, but the chances are that half a million women will go. Leaving the women out of the calculation, Illinois, under normal conditions, is approximately 200,000 Republican. The combined Taft-Roosevelt vote four years ago was about 230,000 in excess of that cast for the President.

All of which shows the enormous margin which the Democratic ticket must overcome if the electral vote of this State goes to Wilson. Can it be done? If the Republican party were actually reunited and were standing pat behind Hughes, the answer to the question would be easy. But it is not reunited and it not standing pat. A great majority of the late Bull Moose are supporting Hughes—that is, a majority of the part of the Roosevelt following recruited from the Republican party. The Democratih moose—50,000 of them perhaps—are back in the Democratic ranks.

Just how many of the Republican Moose are for Wilson or are still on the fence, nobody knows.

DEATH OF PASTOR RUSSELL

On Way From Los Angeles to New York When End Comes.

MESSENGER BOYS STRIKE

Shorter Hours and Higher Pay Demanded in New York.

New York, Nov. 1.— Several hundred messenger boys employed by the telegraph companies here went on strike yesterday for what they described as 'better working conditions.' They want shorter hours and higher pay among other things.

Messenger service in some parts of the city was crippled. In many instances the companies were compelled to telephone messages received by them to various parts of the city. Organizers of the Messenger Boys' Union declared last night that by tonight every boy in both the Western Union and Postal Telegraph Company employ would be on strike. The Companies predicted the messengers soon would return to work.

SALOONS IN WASHINGTON

Excise Board Reduces Total Number of Licenses by 14.

The Excise Board, of which A. J. ("Cy") Cummings, of Montgomery county, Maryland, is chairman, yesterday reduced, by 14, the number of saloons and wholesale liquor establishments in the District of Columbia in announcing the list of licenses for the coming year. The number of saloons is reduced from 269 to 259, and the number of wholesale houses cut from 88 to 84.

There were 281 applications for retail saloon licenses, 21 being refused, and one having been withdrawn. The Works-Jones excise law limits the number of saloons in Washington to 300.

Licenses were granted to the Metropolitan and Army and Navy Clubs in opposition to the Anti-Saloon League.

VIRGINIA IN "DRY" RANKS.

800 Saloons Go Out of Business to Ringing of Church Bells.

Richmond, Nov. 1— Virginia the eighteenth State to ban the sale of intoxicating beverages, closed all saloons at midnight last night, completing a "dry" area in the South reaching from Washington to Jacksonville to the East and from Washington to New Orleans to the West.

Although a large part of the Old Dominion previously had been voted "dry" in local option elections, the new State law closed more than 800 saloons, mostly in Richmond Norfolk, Newport News, Lynchburg, Petersburg, Roanoke and Bristol.

The law is one of the most drastic ever passed by a State Legislature. No beverage except cider can be sold that shows a trace of alcohol, and possession of more than one gallon of whiskey, one gallon of wine, or three gallons of beer, would be regarded as prima facie evidence of intent to violate the law. This provision probably will receive an early test in court, as vast quantities of liquor have been stored in privte homes.

Along with the prohibition measure and to insure its enforcement, the Legislature passed a bill which provided that ouster proceedings may be brought against State or municipl authorities who show a laxity in putting it ,or any other measure, into effect, In addition a commissioner was provided to see that the law was observed.

Many saloons closed during the last few days because their stocks were exhausted. Those remaining went out of business to the chimes of ringing church bells and the shouting and singing of enthusiastic "dry" workers who held jollification meetings and watch parties in almost every part of the State.

The authorities of several towns had issued decrees postponing the celebration of Hallowe'en to prevent possible disorders but the passing of the saloons was peaceful.

Harrisonburg, Nov. 1—Although the prohibition law did not become effective until midnight, every drop of whisky in the five saloons in Harrisonburg had been sold by noon and the doors closed. The rush for liquor refreshments Monday night and yesterday morning resembled a football mass attack or a charge of women on a bargain counter.

Bristol, Va., Nov. 1.—Fourteen saloons and whisky-shipping houses and two manufacturing plants were closed here last night. The end was reached after a rush in the business that covered a month. It was like a Christmas holiday rush and many men from the mountains and rural districts came down to the city to return with suitcases filled.

A few of the houses that closed last night expect to open a whisky-shipping business just across the State line in Tennessee, having found that the prohibition law in that State does not prohibit the houses that do an interstate shipping business.

Bristol temperance advocates celebrated the closing of saloons with a mass meeting last night in the State Street Methodist Church.

SHOT TO DEATH BY SON

Easton, Md., Nov. 1.—Hewett H. Langsdale, a member of the Easton Utilities Commission, was shot and killed in his office yesterday by his son, Bryan Langsdale, aged 20 years.

When Langsdale's wife entered his room at the hospital where he had been taken it is reported, she said to her son, "Bryan, Bryan, what have you done?"

"It is the best thing for him", the son is alleged to have replied. The latter was taken to jail.

State's Attorney Charles J. Butler, visited young Langsdale in his cell this afternoon. The youth is said to have admitted shooting his father and expressed no regrets. He is quoted as saying:

"I had been thinking over killing my father for a day or two. It was a question whether I would commit suicide or take my father's life. I had placed some arsenic in the stable and I went to the barn to take it, but changed my mind. I decided then that I would go back to the house and take father's life. I went to the room back of the office and waited until father came in, When he entered I went to the door between the two rooms and when father's back was turned I fired.

"Father injected bad blood into my veins and made me a bad man. I had a spell of insanity last spring.

Young Langsdale is believed to be insane and his mother, it is said, has been uneasy for some time, fearing he would commit some rash deed when in one of his fits of melancholy. Yesterday morning she warned her husband that he had better keep an eye on Bryan or the boy would do him some harm. The father laughed it off.

Mr. Langsdale was a director of the Emergency Hospital, one of the trustees of Calvary Methodist Protestant Church and interested in other business activities of the town.

LACK OF RAILROAD CARS.

Coal Companies in West Virginia Cut Output 40 per cent.

Huntington, W. Va., Nov. 1. — While officials of railroads which do a large coal carrying business say the abnormal demand for cars is being satisfactorily met, operators having properties in Southern Ohio, West Virginia and Eastern Kentucky declared yesterday the production of their field has been cut in some cases from 40 to 60 per cent, because of their inability to get ample transportation facilities.

So far, however, it has not been necessary to suspend operation of any mines entirely, it is reported, nor has a scarcity of labor been seriously felt.

POPE LAUDS BELGIAN RELIEF.

Receives George Barr Baker, at American Commission.

Rome, Nov. 1.— Pope Benedict yesterday received in private audience George Barr Baker, of New York, a member of the American Commission for Relief in Belgium. Wishing, he said, further to demonstrate his appreciation of the work of the American Relief Committee, the Pontiff presented to Mr. Baker two autographed photographs, one for himself and one for Herbert C. Hoover, the chairman of the commission.

The Pope expressed the hope that the plan of the commission to provide a supplementary meal for the Belgian children to save them from starvation and disease would be a success, and added that it would give a new proof of American generosity.

The pontiff recently addressed an apostolic letter to Cardinal Gibbons recommending that the Catholic episcopacy, clergy and laity in the United States support the plan.

FALL OF AEROPLANE.

Machine Overturns With Silas Christofferson on Test.

Redwood, City, Cal., Nov. 1.—Silas Christofferson, consulting engineer of an aviation company here, was fatally injured when his machine overturned and fell 100 feet in a trial flight of a new military aeroplane.

Christofferson was flying over the aviation field at a height of several hundred feet when his engine went dead. He volplaned to an approximate height of 100 feet, then seemed to lose control of his plane and plunged to earth.

Christofferson's wife and two brothers were watching the flight and rushed to his aid. The aviator was hurried to a hospital, but expired soon after reaching there.

Christofferson, was 26 years old and a native of Iowa. He took up aviation in 1910 and made his most noted flight several years ago between San Francisco and Los Angeles, over the Tehachapi Mountains.

The British steamship Marina was torpedoed without warning, according to statement made by American survivors of the vessel who arrived in Dublin last night from Bearhaven. The survivors declare that two torpedoes were fired at the Marina and that the submarine watched the boats containing the survivors for half an hour without offering assistance. Six Americans were drowned.

The German submarine U-53 has returned safely to its home port, according to an announcement in Berlin.

We never have a long spell of sickness in our family, since we commenced using Black-Draught."

THE SOUTHERN RAILWAY COMPANY

An Ambition and a Record

THE needs of the South are identical with the needs of the Southern Railway: the growth and success of one means the upbuilding of the other.

The Southern Railway asks no favors—no special privilege not accorded to others.

The ambition of the Southern Railway Company is to see that unity of interest that is born of co-operation between the public and the railroads; to see perfected that fair and frank policy in the management of railroads which invites the confidence of governmental agencies; to realize that liberality of treatment which will enable it to obtain the additional capital needed for the acquisition of better and enlarged facilities incident to the demand for increased and better service; and, finally—

To take its niche in the body politic of the South alongside of other great industries, with no more, but with equal, liberties, equal rights and equal opportunities.
